Every clue answer has two consecutive digits removed to form its grid entry. The removed pairs of digits are all distinct two-digit primes. Each clue consists of a description of the answer, a letter designating the removed prime and sometimes other information about it, and in some cases a description of the grid entry. Cross-references refer to grid entries if in square brackets, and to full answers otherwise. Numbers described as having digits ascending or descending do not have a repeated digit. "Multiple of x" always means 2x or greater. All answers and entries are different and none starts with a zero.
